Term 5

Learning Journey – History, Science and DT

What makes a good explorer?

In History we will be identifying what makes someone significant. We will learn all about significant explorers including Matthew Henson and Felicity Aston. We will identify how they made a difference and challenges they faced. In Science we will investigate different ways to melt ice, focusing on working scientifically, gathering and recording data. In DT we are making a hand puppet of an explorer we have learnt about in our History lessons. We are going to use templates and stencils to practice joining materials in order to design, make and evaluate a puppet.
